S13. Profile — your info, settings, and the serious stuff, in calm sections

Everything on the current screen is represented — nothing dropped. Photo, due date, children, location up top; preferences and help in the middle; legal and account actions at the bottom, where serious items belong.

Function inventory — Profile: photo update (tap) · due date (calendar picker) · children count · location (auto-lookup) · appearance (text size / reduce motion / contrast) · app tutorial · rate · share · app version · legal (Privacy, ToS, Disclaimer — in-app webview) · log out · delete account (typed confirmation, App Store 5.1.1(v)) · error + retry state. Not in mockup on purpose: none.

SI4. Wellness Journal — a gentle daily check-in, not a medical chart

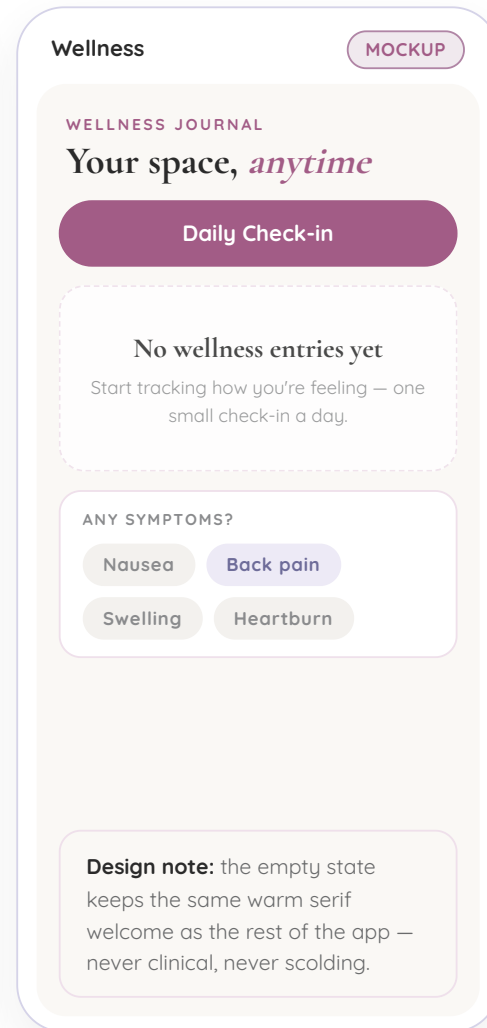

Every existing feature is here: one-tap daily check-in, your week at a glance (mood, energy, sleep, check-ins), recent entries, and the four-step check-in flow (mood → energy & sleep → symptoms → journal). Empty state included.

Function inventory — Wellness: daily check-in button · weekly stats (check-ins / mood / energy / sleep) · recent entries (tap to reopen) · check-in modal: mood → energy & sleep → symptoms (multi-select chips) → journal notes → save · empty state. Not in mockup on purpose: none.

S15. Invoices — what's due, what's paid, and paying stays between you and your provider

The app shows your provider's invoices and payment instructions; it never processes money. The app keeps the disclaimer honest and the "I've Paid" notification one tap away.

Function inventory — Invoices: invoice list (status chips: due / paid) · disclaimer card · detail modal: provider info, issue/due dates, amount, description, payment instructions per provider method (copy-to-clipboard), "I've Paid — Notify My Provider" (awaiting-payment state), notes field · empty state. Not in mockup on purpose: none.
